

The Institute of Transportation Engineers Ohio Section presents the recipients of the Young Engineer Award

The Young Engineer Award recognizes an individual under the age of 35 who has made and is making contributions to the transportation engineering profession, the Ohio Section, the Institute and one's community. Factors taken into consideration include Section and National membership and committee activity, positions and offices held, professional accomplishments, community involvements, and demonstrated leadership in one's profession, ITE and the community.
